

IN THE ABSTRACT

Please amend the abstract as follows:

-- A digital photographing apparatus, portably structured, for recording a photographed digital picture signal to a recording record medium and reproducing a digital picture signal from the recording record medium is disclosed, that comprises ~~a photographing means for photographing a picture and outputting a picture signal, a signal processing means for processing the picture signal supplied from the photographing means, a position information obtaining means for obtaining position information, a displaying means for displaying the digital picture signal supplied from the signal processing means, a~~ The apparatus includes a recording means for recording the digital picture signal supplied from ~~the~~ a signal processing means and ~~the~~ position information supplied from ~~the~~ a position information obtaining means to the recording record medium, a reproducing means for reproducing the digital picture signal and the position information from the recording record medium, a map information obtaining means for obtaining map information, a table creating means for creating a table for the reproduced position information, and a controlling means for referencing the table for the position information and displaying an icon corresponding to the position information and the map information to the displaying means.--